PART G: CONDITIONS

1. An interment right is a contract with the cemetery operator that allows interments to take place in a particular location in a cemetery. There is no entitlement to any real estate.
2. Dungog Shire Council ('Council') or the General Manager may, upon payment of the appropriate charge fixed by Council, issue Rights of Burial which shall be in or to the effect of the above form, giving exclusive right of burial in one or more specified allotments of the cemetery; but the Council may refuse, or may authorise the General Manager to refuse to issue Rights of Burial for more than one allotment to any one person if it is satisfied that an attempt is being made to create a monopoly or to deal in such Rights in the way of business.
3. Such Rights may be transferred or transmitted, and the Council shall record any transfer or transmission upon satisfactory proof of the right of the claimant to be regarded as the transferee or successor thereto.
4. Burials shall not be allowed in any allotment in respect of which a Right of Burial has been issued, unless the consent in writing of the then holder of the Right and the Right itself are produced (on request) to the Council.
5. No more than two (2) Interment Rights in a cemetery can be held for any individual person.
6. Interment rights issued to multiple applicants are held jointly. On the death of a joint holder of an Interment Right, it passes on to the remaining joint Interment holder/s
7. The Interment Right application fee does not include any extras, eg. Maintenance fee, interment site digging fees, administration fees.
8. An Interment Right can form part of a personal estate and can be bequeathed if not used.
9. Interment rights can be transferred, after consultation with the cemetery operator. Transfer of the interment right is only operative when an application is submitted along with the associated fee and processed by the cemetery operator.
10. Graves can be usually dug to a depth to accommodate two coffins. However occasionally due to rock or stability problems not evident prior to commencement of digging the grave, ground conditions may not allow for burial in an allocated plot. In these circumstances an alternate plot will be allocated.
11. The cemetery operator reserves the right to review and/or amend these Terms and Conditions, its holdings, interment sites and property within its cemeteries at any time, without notice to you.
